

THE SANCTUARY OF TANIT AT CARTHAGE IN THE ROMAN PERIOD

A re-interpretation

by Henry Hurst

with contributions by

Z. Ben Abdallah, M. G. Fulford, and S. Henson

9	1. Introduction and Acknowledgements
15	2. The Tophet in the Roman and late-antique periods
	Early and Mid-Roman
20	1. Vaults of first terrace
27	2. Vaults of second terrace and rise to higher level
29	3. Bordy's structure, probable vaults of third terrace
34	4. The Lapeyre&endash;Picard structure
39	5. Evidence for a cult of Saturn
43	6. The courtyard building and enclosure wall
59	7. Remains north of terraced complex beside harbourside road
	Late Roman, including the City Wall of the 5th c. A.D.
61	1. The seasons mosaic and 'corridor'
70	2. The City Wall of the 5th c. A.D. and other remains in the area of the former W range of the courtyard building
	Late Antique
79	1. Above second vaults of former terraced complex
79	2. The so-called Temple of Saturn
81	3. Remains on site of former courtyard building interpreted as a Temple of Venus
84	4. Koudiat el Hobsia
84	The nature and possible date of the hill
85	Possible Roman structures on the hill
87	Possible Roman cult evidence
89	Christian burials
90	Interpretation
	General discussions
91	Ancient topographic texts
97	The possible boundaries of the sanctuary
98	Continuity between the Punic and Roman layout in the Tophet site
101	Conclusions

Appendices

- 103 Appendix 1: A propos d'un ex-voto à Caelestis découvert à Carthage: note préliminaire
by Z. B. Ben Abdalla
- 106 Appendix 2: Details of Tophet excavations and observations of strata
- 119 Appendix 3: Pottery retrieved in 1995-96 with M. G. Fulford
- 120 Appendix 4: Re-identification of some photographs and drawings of Roman and later structures from earlier excavations
- 124 Appendix 5: Roman sculpture from the Picard-Cintas excavations
- 125 Appendix 6. Roman architectural elements and stonework at present displayed in the Tophet with S. Henson
- 133 Bibliography

List price: $54.75, Discounted price to private individuals $43.80 plus postage.

Cloth, 136 pages, 76 ills. plus 4 pages of color.

ISBN: 1-887829-30-X. Published February 1999.